NOVIKOFF

The grandeur and elegance of a more classic era is captured in The Wingate Collection® from Novikoff. Traditional desks, tables and cabinets for the executive, painstakingly crafted from American Walnut, and enhanced with beautiful and innovative details for the modern workplace. These are furnishings for those who appreciate the roles of ceremony and practicality, and who seek the delicate balance between form and function. It is for those who recognize quality and demand the best that The Wingate Collection® was designed. Beyond merely accommodating the tasks at hand, The Wingate Collection® also makes a very significant and enduring statement about the standards of its owners.

The Novikoff family's commitment to style and function is evident in every detail of The Wingate Collection® from the smooth finish of the hand-rubbed walnut surfaces to the smooth action of our apron-mounted locking devices. No detail has been overlooked. No process has been hurried or ignored. At Novikoff, each piece of our fine furniture receives the personal attention and meticulous care befitting a fine classic. Consequently, you won't come across a large number of Novikoff furnishings in your travels around the business world. Rather; each piece is like a valued bottle from a rare vintage. Inspired and nurtured by our craftsmen. Valued and cherished by those who own. Whether you furnish your offices with the desks and accessories of the 4400 Series or the Wingate II 4100 Series, you'll be assured of the finest quality materials, Novikoff's superlative workmanship, and classic styling that will inspire creativity and delight the eye for generations to come.

Craftsmanship

The Novikoff family has spent three decades perfecting the fine art of furniture making. As a result, our name has become synonymous with the highest quality in fine wood furniture.

The timbers we select are cut and shaped in our own facilities, using specialized, state-of-the-art furniture making equipment from around the globe. Automated tools and processes, sensitive to incredible tolerances, help us create the smooth, flawless surfaces and perfect radiuses that characterize every product bearing the Novikoff name.

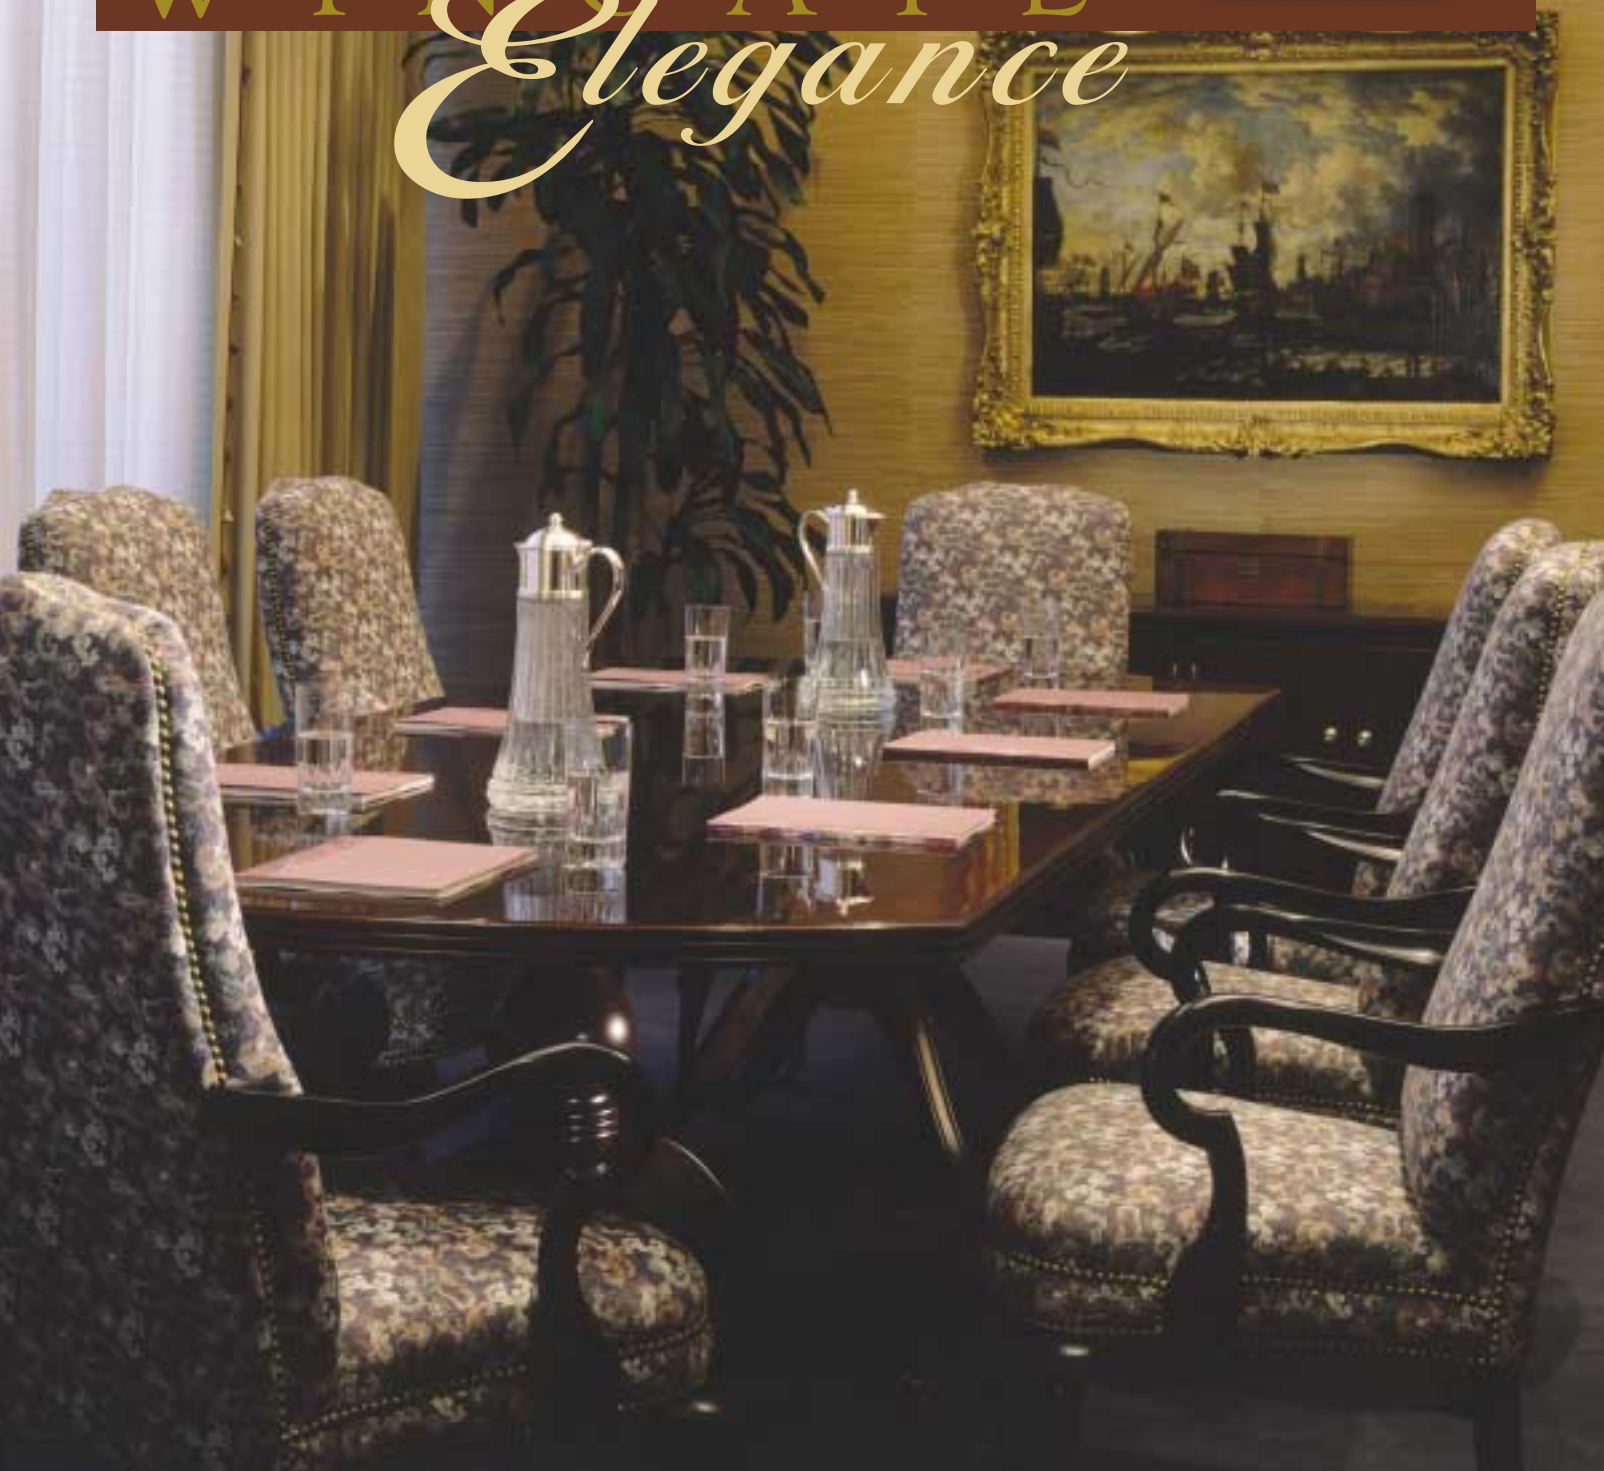

There's only one thing our technology can't do, and that's duplicate the aesthetic judgement of a craftsman's eye or the deep, warm glow that comes from painstaking hand-finishing. That's why, at Novikoff, our extended family includes only the most skilled artisans who share our deep-seated love for beautiful wood and furniture crafting.

While quality alone often carries an exorbitant price tag, the Novikoff name also stands for Value. Not just the inherent value of the product itself, but also the value the furniture represents in enhancing the productivity of the user and the aesthetic of the office environment. The result is furniture that often inspires a unique sense of pride and ownership that people seldom feel toward ordinary furnishings.

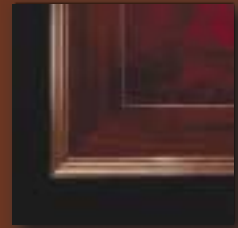

*W*ith our Conference Grouping, Novikoff creates a setting in which top-level collaborations are at once stylish and productive. Crafted from solid walnut hardwoods and veneers, the table gives additional presence to lofty ideas with its background of fulfilled lacquered sheen, and punctuates important discussions with an accent band of quartered mahogany. A hand-carved Queen Anne base provides a solid foundation for discussion, with plenty of leg room for appropriately elegant seating, such as Novikoff's Cheshire Arm Chairs with nailhead trim. A matching credenza, shown here with a hinged-drawer storage unit, is designed to support the activities of office and conference room alike, in a variety of modular configurations.

To top level executives, a desk is more than a tool of business. It's an instrument of self-expression. As such, the Wingate 4400 Series Senior Executive Desk communicates with an eloquence seldom found in today's office furnishings. Crafted from American Black Walnut and hand-rubbed to a lacquered sheen, it is large enough to accommodate broad corporate perspectives as well as intimate round-table discussions. For those who manage with signature style, an optional burl wood or foil-stamped leather top is available; and the accompanying breakfront credenza with polished brass hardware offers an endless versatility of configuration. Accented with our Hepplewhite Guest Chair and Chatham Wing Chair; they are furnishings that demand no compromise in sophistication or practicality.

*F*or executives who aspire to be the best of everything, the Wingate 4400 Series Double Pedestal Desk is one of life's most satisfying professional rewards. The intricate detail, highly-figured grain and mirror-like finish are evidence of our own, high work ethic. Practical amenities, such as exceptionally deep files and felt-lined personal drawers, reflect our own commitment to function and efficiency. Although the most dedicated professional does not live by work alone, we enhanced the beauty of the desk with a solid walnut base - an upgrade not usually offered. Combined with Novikoff's Chippendale chairs with nailhead trim, it's a classic ensemble for professionals who know exactly where they're going - and intend to enjoy the trip every step of the way.

*N*ovikoff's Wingate II 4100 Series Secretarial Ensemble offers all the classic styling and superb craftsmanship of the 4400 Series, but in a more moderately priced line. It includes the Secretarial "L" Desk with dictation slide (the 4400 Series offers an optional gallery rail on the return), fashioned from the same quality American Black Walnut and taken to an identical lacquered finish. In fact, the only visible difference is the antique finish of the brass hardware. Completed with a matching double-wide bookcase, modular 2-tier lateral file and Novikoff's Spencer-Hall Wing Chair, the grouping offers far greater flexibility than any comparably priced suite, while maintaining the distinctive Wingate aesthetic throughout your office.
